

THIS WEEK IN FOREST SCHOOL...

Year 3

Stone Age to
Bronze Age

Today our focus in Forest School was to learn to tie knots. The children have been interested in building tarp shelters so now was the time to develop independence, so they can begin to put their own shelters up with less adult dependency. The children rose to the challenge and persevered, showing resilience when it didn't quite go to plan. Other children were inspired by their science work on rock and soils. They began digging for stones and using their knowledge began identifying the types of rocks they had found.
