

Year 2 - Living Things

THIS WEEK IN FOREST SCHOOL...

Today was the last session of the year for us. We shared the story of The Mixed up Chameleon by Eric Carle. We talked about animals using camouflage as a way to survive. The children were split into two teams in order to hide and find different coloured matchsticks. The children made predictions and when they had returned we discussed whether their predictions were accurate. As they are learning about the jungle in class we talked about jungle animals and their camouflage, some children then thought carefully about the area and coloured in pictures of different animals with colours that would not stand out. Others then had to try and find them.
